I feel that this whole action against Microsoft is not only an assault against Microsoft, but it is an assault on the free market economy, the capitalism of this country that has made this one of the most prosperous countries in the world.

Microsoft is good, they have a good product that people want and other companies want to be associated with it. In a competitive business environment there will always be winners and losers, it's the nature of the beast, and there are far too many whiney people in this country today who seem to feel that their wants are more important than anyone else's; 'I want so you have to gimme.' These are simply spoiled brats, bullies whining because somebody else has a better product (or toy) than theirs. That's life in the big city! To sue a company because they have a preferred product is a waste of everyone's time and money. I have an invention, and those who know about it want it, and there is nothing else on the market like it. If I was forced to give it up or give my secrets away because some whiney cry baby didn't think of it first I would feel this whole country had gone to hell in a hand basket, and it would be time for me to leave it.
